How's Your Appetite?

THAT'S one of the first questions the doctor asks.

He knows that a poor appetite means a bad stomach—and a bad stomach means poor health.

Maier Tonic is the best kind of an appetizer. It creates a natural healthy desire for food by preparing the stomach to receive it—by toning up the stomach and aiding digestion.

Try a few bottles—a little with every meal—and see how much more you enjoy eating and how much stronger and healthier you will feel.

Order a case today from your druggist.

"Relieved my Rheumatism"

—Yes, and after I'd been laid up all winter, had doctored, and tried everything I could think of, and was just about ready to give up the fight, the pain was so terrible—that's what Sloan's Liniment did for me. And it'll do as much for you."

Sloan's Liniment never fails. It's penetrating—goes straight to the sore spot—kills the pain. All you have to do is to lay it on lightly—no rubbing required.

STIFFED SHOULDER PAIN. Mrs. J. H. Blackwood, of Grubbs-on-Hudson, N.Y., writes: "I had rheumatic pains in my shoulders and back so bad I could not move without screaming. We supposed to get a half bottle of Sloan's Liniment from a neighbor and it worked like magic; the second application relieved my suffering entirely."

RELIEVED SCOTIC RHEUMATISM. Mr. Perigo, of W. 10th St., Des Moines, Iowa, writes: "We have used Sloan's Liniment for over six years, and found it the best we ever used. When my wife had sciatic rheumatism, the only thing that did her any good was Sloan's Liniment. We cannot praise it highly enough."

SLOAN'S LINIMENT

is splendid for sprains, bruises, neuralgia, lumbago, lame muscles and stiff joints. Always keep a bottle in the house.

At all dealers. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00

HAIR LOSS IS NOT NECESSARY; SAVE IT WITH-NEWBRO'S HERPICIDE

Approaching hair loss, while frequently contemplated with misgivings, is nevertheless often accepted as inevitable. Such loss is not always necessary and can be prevented.

No one should buy a bottle of Newbro's Herpicide with the idea that it will make hair grow on a head where there has been no hair for several years. It will not do it.

When the hair is dry, brittle, uneven and coming out with every combing, it is an indication of dandruff contagion. For combating this condition and giving the hair a natural gloss and beauty, Newbro's Herpicide, when applied intelligently, has proved of extraordinary benefit. Having an exquisite odor and containing neither grease or hair coloring matter, you will enjoy Herpicide. It is clean, sanitary and delightful hair dressing.

Newbro's Herpicide was the first preparation to be compounded in harmony with the theory of dandruff contagion, and costs no more than the off brand and so-called "just as good" articles. Why accept anything but the original?

Applications at the best barber shops. Send ten cents in postage or silver to the Herpicide Company, Dept. S, Detroit, Mich. for trial bottle and an interesting booklet on the care of the hair.

"FRISCO" REPORTS ANALYZED.

Many Senators Declare It Shows the Necessity for Legislation Prohibiting Interlocking Directorates.

(BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—The administration's programme for control of financial operations of railroads will be expedited by the Interstate Commerce Commission's sensational report on the Frisco system receiver-ship, according to many Senators, who pointed out today that the report disclosed through its exposition of syndicate operations, in which officials of the Frisco took part, conditions which legislation prohibiting interlocking directorates would prevent.

Senator Kenyon, who introduced the resolution that brought out the report, has a bill pending to have the Interstate Commerce Commission control issues of railroad securities.

"The Frisco report certainly shows the necessity for action by Congress," said he today.

Pointing out that the practices condemned dissipated the revenues of the great railroads to the extent of millions of dollars each year, the commission made a significant reference in its decision to the present movement among the eastern railroads for an increase in freight rates.

"Before they may fairly ask the general public to share further in carrying their burdens, it is manifest that the railroads must themselves properly conserve their sources of revenue by making every service performed contribute reasonably to their earnings."

At all dealers. Price 25c, 50c and $1.00

REAL REVIVAL CHEERS LONDON

Large Buying Orders Made the Stock Exchange.

Gain in Consols Reflects Progress of Prosperity.

Quarter Billion Dollars Securities' Advance.

(BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.) LONDON, Jan. 27.—(The Times.) The city has seen a long time as it is now. The stock exchange is convinced that a genuine recovery is really begun. Demand for securities is big and big buying orders are being placed. Speculators are animated all round. The prediction in all classes of securities has stopped and the position is entirely.

The Bankers' Magazine publishes a recent list of 187 companies which have taken place for the first time in the London market since January 18. This advance is not the actual appreciation of the various markets and the fact that the index to market values, based on 2 1/2 per cent, which was at the period of five weeks to one 100.

STRIKE INQUIRY IS AUTHORIZED.

Mines and Mining Committee Empowered by House.

Resolution Aimed Entirely at the Employers.

Fails to Note Lawlessness on Part of Unions.

(BY CABLE AND A. P. TO THE TIMES.) WASHINGTON, Jan. 27.—A sweeping investigation of strike conditions in the coal fields of Colorado and the copper district of Michigan was authorized by the House today. By a vote of 151 to 15 the House adopted the resolution of Representative Keating of Colorado, empowering the Mines and Mining Committee to make inquiry as to conditions in Colorado and Michigan in which the Federal government might be concerned.

Hearings will be conducted in the district regions by a subcommittee or committees, which will start west as soon as arrangements can be made.

Seven subjects of inquiry specified in the resolution are:

Whether the postal services are interfered with.

Whether the immigration laws are being violated.

Whether citizens have been arrested and tried contrary to the Constitution or laws of the United States.

A WOMAN'S HEALTH

Every woman's health is peculiarly dependent upon the condition of her blood. How many women suffer with headache, pain in the back, poor appetite, weak digestion, a constant feeling of weariness, palpitation of the heart, shortness of breath, pallor and nervousness? If you have any of these symptoms, do not despair of getting better, but begin now, today, to build up blood. The blood is the life of the body. It is the blood that carries the life-giving force to every part of the body. It is the blood that carries the waste products of the body out of the body. THE SECRET OF SUCCESS

Genuine Merit Required to Win the People's Confidence

Have you ever stopped to reason why it is that so many products that are extensively advertised, all at once drop out of sight and are soon forgotten? The reason is plain: the article did not fulfill the promises of the manufacturer. This applies more particularly to a medicine. A medicinal preparation that has real curative value must sell itself, as like an endless chain system the remedy is recommended by those who have been benefited by those who are in need of it.

A prominent druggist says "Take for example Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, a preparation I have sold for many years and never hesitate to recommend. For in almost every case it shows excellent results, as many of my customers testify. No other kidney remedy that I know of has so large a sale."

According to sworn statements and verified testimony of thousands who have used the preparation, the success of Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root is due to the fact that it fulfills almost every claim made for it. It cures liver and bladder diseases, corrects urinary troubles and neutralizes the uric acid which causes rheumatism.

You may receive a sample bottle of Swamp-Root by Parcel Post. Address Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., and enclose ten cents. Also mention the Los Angeles Daily Times.

FRUITOLA and TRAXO have proved their wonderful curative powers to thousands of people suffering with chronic indigestion, gall stones and appendicitis. Get our free booklet of testimonials today from any of The Owl Drug Co.'s stores or write us.

The Surest Way To Remove Hairs

(Boudier's Secret)

The annoying growths of hair or fura can now be banished in a quick, painless manner and at a trifling expense by the following simple method. The hair is first treated with a special preparation which causes it to fall out. It then grows again, but it is so weak and thin that it is easily removed by the fingers. This process is repeated until the hair is completely gone. The hair will not grow again. This is the surest way to remove hair.

BULLARD BLOCK FOR CITY HALL.

Newest Proposition to Be Submitted to Council.

Moral Obligation of City, Declare Promoters.

Early Opposition to Plan Develops in Chamber.

Purchase of the Bullard Block, North Spring, Main, Court and Market streets, for temporary City Hall purposes, pending erection of a permanent structure on the Temple Block site, is the latest scheme.

The proposition will be submitted by Councilman Betkowski to the Council as a committee of the whole next Tuesday afternoon in connection with the consideration of the general City Hall subject.

Betskouski believes that the moral obligation that rests upon the city to use the Temple Block site for a permanent City Hall should be respected and that, as a preliminary step, the use of the Bullard Block would be practicable—thus securing a larger site for the building that may be erected eventually, and providing quarters for city offices, while the first unit of the structure is in progress on the Temple Block site.

The City Council will sit as a committee of the whole at 2 o'clock next Wednesday afternoon to consider the City Hall subject. Ordinarily, the hearing is to be on resolutions presented yesterday by the Civic Center Association, which asks for adherence to the expressed intention of the city to use the Temple Block site for a new City Hall.

But it is reasonably certain that the opening of this subject will also bring about discussion of the proposed removal of all city offices to the State Normal School buildings when the city acquires possession, and that the entire subject in its many phases may be discussed.

OBJECTS TO PLAN.

Miles Gregory, secretary of the Civic Center Association, appeared before the Council yesterday and presented the resolutions asking for early action for their consideration. President Whitfield declared that he is not in favor of any move at present that would call for such outlay of city funds, and that he believes the Temple Block site is a too small one for a building as the city should erect when it has the funds.

Councilman Bryant said he could see no reason for selling the present City Hall site and using a smaller one, and Councilman Reed proposed that the City Hall Annex be torn down and the space be used for the erection of the first unit of a large office building, that the outside departments be housed therein and later the additional units of the entire structure be erected on the present site.

Gregory declared that if the City Hall property on Broadway is offered for sale he has assurance that a syndicate will be formed immediately to purchase it at a price of not less than $600,000, and that a New York syndicate is ready to lead in building erected thereon and extending through to Spring street for a long term of years for mercantile purposes.

ADOPT RESOLUTION.

At a meeting of the advisory board of the Civic Center Association, at which were present Marco R. Hillman, O. M. Souden, J. M. Schneider, Frank M. Coulter, Marco R. Newman, C. Wesley Roberts, F. W. Blanchard and Miles A. Gregory, the following resolution, transmitted to the Council yesterday, was adopted:

"Whereas, the administration of the government of the city of Los Angeles is greatly hampered by lack of adequate accommodations for its various departments, in view of which fact the City Council has authorized the City Building Inspector to increase the height of the City Hall Annex to three stories at a cost of approximately $10,000; and

"Whereas, the additional space so provided will only partially meet the growing needs of the different departments of the city government; and

"Whereas, several hundred citizens of Los Angeles have united to contribute the sum of $125,000 toward the purchase of the Temple Block site, and the city has agreed with the various contributors that the City Hall shall be constructed on the Temple Block site;

"Whereas, the sale of the present site of the City Hall and City Hall Annex for the price of $600,000, and the construction of an adequate City Hall would bring about a direct saving in annual rentals of $26,000 and of approximately $10,000 for the construction of the proposed addition to the City Hall Annex; and yearly appropriation of $50,000 to the completion of the contract for the purchase of the Temple Block site, and the sale of the Broadway site for $600,000, that with a further appropriation of $125,000 of the amount required for the completion of a modern City Hall adequate to meet the needs of a business-like administration of the city government; and

"Now, therefore, be it resolved, that this association recommend that the City Council of Los Angeles shall offer for sale at once, by ordinance, the site of the present City Hall and Annex for some minimum sum not to exceed $600,000, and from proceeds of said sale start the immediate construction of the City Hall on the Temple Block site.

PATROLMAN SUSPENDED.

His Alleged Relations with Woman Who Attempted to Commit Suicide Grounded.

Patrolman William G. Cramer was suspended from the department yesterday because of alleged relations with Mrs. Margaret Finn, who shot herself Monday night. She gave as her cause for the act that she had been misled by Cramer. She asserted that he had promised to marry her, and had not told her that he is a married man with four children.

Mrs. Finn was taken to her home, No. 719 East Tenth street, yesterday. Her wound is trivial. She is highly superstitious, and had given Cramer an amethyst set in a ring. She believed that if Cramer did not treat her fairly an amethyst stone would bring him ill-luck.

She also declares she heard four knocks on the wall of her room two nights before she shot herself, and told her children that there was to be a death in the family soon.

From Independence to Drudgery.

Miss Elizabeth Thompson,

Seeks Work in Va.

PRINCIPAL IN CHURCH LITIGATION IN WANT.

HER slender property resources practically exhausted and her position at her trade as an embalmer gone, Miss Elizabeth Thompson said yesterday that she had been compelled to seek work as a household drudge to eke out a scanty living. Now, she says, even this work is denied her and she has been out of work so much that she is facing destitution—for all of which the church is now responsible, having paid the public services in the church about a year ago and charges of insanity were filed against her. A jury declared her sane which she brought suit for $50,000 against the pastor of the church and several of the leading members in the church about a year ago and charges of insanity were filed against her. A jury declared her sane which she brought suit for $50,000 against the pastor of the church and several of the leading members in the church about a year ago and charges of insanity were filed against her.

She is dejected and discouraged because she has no means nor work, but says she must continue to persist.

Discrimination?

TO HOLD HEARING ON HARBOR WORK.

COMPLAINTS OF CONTRACTORS WILL BE LISTENED TO.

City Council Committee Will Take Up Charges Preferred Against Board of Works by Three Contractors—Bids for Doors Main Point of the Controversy.

The Harbor Committee of the City Council will have a public hearing tomorrow at 11 a.m. on the charges preferred against the Board of Public Works and the Harbor Commission by three contracting concerns. The allegations are that the city has discriminated against certain bidders in awarding contracts for materials to be used in construction work at Los Angeles harbor.

Those who filed complaints are the Baldwin and Sweetser Company, the United States Metal Products Company and the Paraffine Paint Company. The main controversy hinges about the advertisement for bids for doors for the transit sheds on Municipal Wharf No. 1, and the specifications for other types of doors that the actual cost of the doors to be of changes to be made by the successful door bidder.

"The Harbor Commissioners, while without authority to dictate the general or specific design of the sheds, pier, etc., nevertheless took it upon themselves to communicate with harbor and other officials at various points on the Coast with reference to the door and other questions, receiving information generally favorable to the steel rolling type of door, and, incidentally, unfavorable to many other details of the general design of our harbor construction."

Speaking of the grievance of the contractors, E. R. Baldwin, of the Baldwin & Sweetser Company, said yesterday:

"Some months ago the assistant harbor engineer admitted he had completed plans and specifications which would require the steel rolling type of door for the permanent 1800-ton shed. Upon the engineer presenting these for approval, orders were issued to change the design of the steel work to admit of the use of but one type, upon which there could be no competition as between the various door manufacturers. The engineer was also instructed to include the major portion of the door frames, guides, etc., in the plans and specifications covering the general steel construction of the shed. To the end that the actual cost of the doors to the city could never be accurately determined.

"If competition was intended to be fair to all prospective bidders for harbor development, why did those in charge advertise for separate bids on shed doors when the major portion of the door which they favored had already been included in and made a portion of the specifications and plans covering the general steel work of the shed?"

"If general efficiency of construction was really desired, why were the plans and specifications covering the door requirements so drawn as to bar out bids on the best-known and most commonly used types of warehouse doors?"

"The design of the shed as prepared by the type door bidder prohibits the economical attachment of a steel rolling door (or any other type) of door, except the favored type, without necessarily favoring the door and other questions, receiving information generally favorable to the steel rolling type of door, and, incidentally, unfavorable to many other details of the general design of our harbor construction."

"Some months ago the assistant harbor engineer admitted he had completed plans and specifications which would require the steel rolling type of door for the permanent 1800-ton shed. Upon the engineer presenting these for approval, orders were issued to change the design of the steel work to admit of the use of but one type, upon which there could be no competition as between the various door manufacturers. The engineer was also instructed to include the major portion of the door frames, guides, etc., in the plans and specifications covering the general steel construction of the shed. To the end that the actual cost of the doors to the city could never be accurately determined.

"If competition was intended to be fair to all prospective bidders for harbor development, why did those in charge advertise for separate bids on shed doors when the major portion of the door which they favored had already been included in and made a portion of the specifications and plans covering the general steel work of the shed?"

"If general efficiency of construction was really desired, why were the plans and specifications covering the door requirements so drawn as to bar out bids on the best-known and most commonly used types of warehouse doors?"

"The design of the shed as prepared by the type door bidder prohibits the economical attachment of a steel rolling door (or any other type) of door, except the favored type, without necessarily favoring the door and other questions, receiving information generally favorable to the steel rolling type of door, and, incidentally, unfavorable to many other details of the general design of our harbor construction."

Speaking of the grievance of the contractors, E. R. Baldwin, of the Baldwin & Sweetser Company, said yesterday:

"Some months ago the assistant harbor engineer admitted he had completed plans and specifications which would require the steel rolling type of door for the permanent 1800-ton shed. Upon the engineer presenting these for approval, orders were issued to change the design of the steel work to admit of the use of but one type, upon which there could be no competition as between the various door manufacturers. AKOZ RELIEVES MRS. JACKMAN, BEDRIDDEN WITH RHEUMATISM

Acute Pain and Swelling Quickly Disappears When Mineral Is Used.

Mrs. Frank Jackman of 408 West Forty-seventh place, who was bedridden for weeks with rheumatism, has just found relief in Akos, the new radio-active medicinal mineral. In a few days after she began using the Akos internal treatment and the compound for local application, Mrs. Jackman was able to quit her bed. The acute inflammation was eliminated, and the swelling left her hands and feet. Her rapid recovery has been a surprise to her many friends.

"I was attacked so severely by rheumatism in October that I was confined to my bed," said Mrs. Jackman. "My hands and feet were swollen and I had severe pains throughout my body. I had no rest until I tried Akos. After taking the internal treatment one week, I noticed marked improvement. I then used the compound and was surprised to find how quickly it removed the soreness."

"I continued drinking the Akos water and was soon so much improved that I was able to quit the bed and move about the house. I no longer suffered the acute pain, and was improving very rapidly. After two months I was able to get about almost as well as I was when I first became ill."

"Akos surely gave me wonderful relief and I am praising it to all my friends."

Akos is sold at all Owl Drug Stores, where further information may be had regarding this advertisement.

as to your Dinner Jacket Mr. Gordan Says—

—Fashion is saying "hands up" to the man who attempts to make his 1914 Tuxedo Dinner Jacket serve for 1914.

—for it won't serve the man who appreciates smartness as distinguished from mere foppery.

—he is exacting about his street clothes. Why not equally so about the more formal Dinner Jacket?

—yes! the coats are shorter and much snugger—hugging the body more closely. Trousers have narrowed surprisingly. Nativeness is the keynote throughout.

the population of 425,000. For 1913, the records reveal the number of arrests for drunkenness was 1,038, or only .0248 per cent. of a population of 425,000.

"Taking into consideration the increase in population, the number of unemployed, and the fact that arrests in the latter part of 1913, were made for a lesser degree of intoxication than before, this being necessary to keep order in the district north of First street, and east of Main street, the increase of arrests in 1913 for drunkenness over 1912 was only $26. This, consider, a remarkably good showing.

Touching the other angle of this problem is the saloon, the wholesale liquor house, and the cafe and restaurant possessing a first or second-class liquor license. Personal observation and reading of reports received daily in my office show me that the persons possessing liquor licenses value them too highly to take a chance in violating any of our laws and ordinances. The larger saloons along Main street employ floormen to watch for minors, and to keep the peace. This, too, is true of the cafes possessing liquor licenses. This precaution, taken voluntarily by the saloon and cafe proprietors, has operated to make these places less objectionable, and has been of incalculable assistance to the police.

The saloons and cafes are being conducted in such a quiet, orderly manner as to win the commendation of every visiting police officer. I declare this to be the best regulated and cleanest saloon city in the United States. Before dropping this liquor question I want to state that there are fewer "blind pigs" now than formerly, and that gambling has been almost eradicated. These two evils are far more difficult to suppress now than formerly, because of the wariness of the keepers. However, the police plainclothesmen keep after these places day and night, and allow them no peace.

SOCIAL EVIL QUESTION. The social evil question, as in the past, continues a most difficult problem, but conditions in 1913 were better than in 1912. There are no open houses of prostitution in Los Angeles. By this I mean there are no houses where anyone would be operated to introduce or a recommendation from a known friend or booster. There are a few street walkers, but the police are continually watching the streets, and the women, once prosecuted, almost invariably leave the city.

There are a few houses conducted in such a manner that it is almost impossible to obtain evidence sufficient to convict, but these places receive constant

SHERLOCK HOLMES.

A burglar at Long Beach is a great puzzle because he found in a house in which every door was locked and the windows securely fastened. Some great detective is liable to reach the conclusion that the thief had himself locked inside.

THE RIGHT START.

Nature took a hand in the christening of The Little Theater. The institution seems to be more Baptist than Methodist since it was immersed in hot sprinkled. For a complete baptism Monday night was a corker. Manager Blackwood may consider himself to have been flooded with congratulations.

INSIDE INFORMATION.

A newspaper correspondent in London learns that affairs in Mexico are on the verge of a crisis. This will, of course, be a great surprise to the world. Nobody dreamed that there could be anything wrong with Mexico. Its secret, however, is now exposed. English diplomats can find out anything.

TRIUMPH.

An American woman with more money than brains nearly wept her beauty away because she lost a pet dog. The animal was necessary to her happiness because its color matched her furs. Many a husband is allowed to stick around for the same reason. His everlasting ugliness makes him valuable to his wife as a foil for her beauty.

ODD ORNAMENTS.

If you care for green stuff to look at as well as to eat and you live in a flat without a speck of garden soil you can give your eyes an inexpensive feast by investing in a sweet potato, a carrot and a horseradish. You cut the tops from the carrot and the horseradish about an inch down and turn them with the tops up. Then you place them in a dish of water with a few pebbles thrown in to be artistic, but with no earth of any kind. Within a week they will shoot with foliage as delicate as ferns.

THE OTHER WAY.

Somebody says the income tax law discriminates against marriage because the combined incomes of the man and his fiancée might bring them under the law. We imagine Cupid will not be cheated out of his dues very often on this account. More marriages fail to happen because the combined income of the young aspirants is not enough to tax. It is not even enough to be sure of the homestead exemption. Most of us, in fact, would be willing enough to pay the $20 if we could always be sure of the $3000.

SHOWING OFF.

It would be humorous to persons from other places to see how we Californians enjoy our storm and to hear us brag about it. If it washes away a hundred feet of old bridging, upturns a half acre of tender young trees, or fills our dry riverbeds with enough water to wet the gills of a minnow, providing it stands on its head, we go about in a state of enjoyable panic, storm-stricken and glad. We are all in the position of a wife whose husband is too good to be true and who feels that he is actually threatened with becoming a man if he comes home with a clove on his breast.

HE STARTED SOMETHING.

We do not know who is the most popular man in the city and we refuse to start a male beauty contest in order to find out. We have a start, however, in the process of elimination. We know that it is not Donald O'Brien. Readers of The Times Pink have been assuring us of this by every recent mail. They are too definite in their expressions to leave any doubt about what they mean. O'Brien says that the American girl is not a peach. He seems to be mistaken. There is a chance that he does not know what a peach tastes like, but there are a great many expert orchardists in Los Angeles who do. These gallant gentlemen are willing to back their own judgment. They say the crop is good. While distance may lend enchantment, we side with them and not with O'Brien. For us to say such a thing is a good deal like a man taking observations of the stars from a peak on the earth.

A CONFESSION.

"Because a man owns a newspaper and is worth one million or ten million dollars does not make him any better than a man who works with his hands."

So pipes the Trombone, the peep-of-day organette and allged newspaper published by one E. Topolous, the champion rebeter of the glorious golden orange belt these palmey days when the orange growers of Southern California were kept in a condition of beggary by dishonest commission men who handled their crops. The puzzled interest of the bystander in this declaration must take the form of a question.

Is it a confession wrung from the sinner by repentance for his past misconception of his own self-importance founded solely upon sordid wealth dishonestly gained, and may it be taken as a promise of reform in the future in abstinence from protruding his putrid personality before the eyes and nostrils of a long-suffering but very weary public?

BLESSINGS OF THE RAIN.

California is thankful to be saturated with rain. In some places there have been small floods, but the damage occasioned has been incidental to the inestimable blessings. The crops are unharmed, although in two places a few orange trees, planted close to riverbeds, have been washed out. It is the first time anything of the kind has ever happened and is noticed for that reason rather than because of the damage done. The orange crop, valued at close to $30,000,000, is unimpaired.

It is well known in Southern California that the most marked benefits from heavy rains come the second season after it falls. This is supposed to be due to a peculiar geological formation which allows the water to flow into the great underground basins in profusion, so that less irrigation is required. The agriculturists have come to understand that for several seasons following drenching showers bumper crops are assured, and complaints are not made against the heaviest rains.

The damage in Los Angeles and vicinity has been spectacular rather than severe. Those who have built houses in the riverbeds, as many have done in the beautiful Arroyo Seco, have been flooded out. In some other places the lowlands have been filled with water and the inhabitants inconvenienced rather than damaged.

The heaviest losses have been sustained by cities, counties and railroads, due to the washing out of culverts, bridges, highways and tracks. This, so it is estimated, will amount to approximately $1,000,000—which is trivial compared to the immense immediate and future benefits from the rains.

One of the greatest advantages of rain at this season is that it affords almost positive insurance against frost or disagreeably chilly weather. Southern California has never known a long sustained cold spell, but now and then a few frosty blasts sneak by the Sierra barriers—but the rain is always warm and puts Jack Frost to rout.

Such heavy rains as we have experienced are rare, but not unknown. They come so many years apart that people forget and place themselves in jeopardy by moving into the dry beds or by building homes along the banks—when the very fact that high water is not unknown to those localities should serve as a warning that it would probably come again.

But even this year Southern California has been fortunate to escape lightly when tremendous storms have raged up and down the coast from Alaska to Mexico, usually attended by heavy down-pouring of water and hurricane winds. Year after year, as new experiences with natural phenomena occur, there is more and more reason for the people of Southern California to be grateful for the land is sheltered and is abundantly blessed by sunshine, fertility and bounteous rains.

WHAT THE I.W.W. TEACHES.

"Honest labor has no worse enemy in this country than the Industrial Workers of the World; indeed, no real American can or will stand for a movement that preaches the doctrine of 'No God, No Master,' and practices the unlawful policies which leave a trail of bloodshed and violence wherever the Industrial Wreckers go."

It was in these words that John Golden, the international president of the United Textile Workers of America, summarized the opinion of the great mass of the American working people toward the I.W.W. The knowledge that disaster and misery invariably follow in the wake of every I.W.W. disturbance is based upon facts that cannot be denied. So, even where the worker has not had the misfortune to come into personal contact with these disciples of destruction—has not had a chance to study their unprincipled methods at first hand—it is generally admitted that these so-called leaders of the wage earners are nothing more nor less than the most dangerous type of fakirs.

And how could they be otherwise, in view of the kind of doctrine they teach? With Idaho Haywood declaring himself an under-the-counter dealer with Ektor and all the rest of the I.W.W. paid agitators urging the workers to resort to the most lawless of methods; with the educated men in the movement frankly confessing that they have no desire to treat an employer just or square—what can be expected of such an organization? Yet this is exactly what they say.

It was Haywood who, in a speech at Cooper Union, New York City, declared: "Can you doubt that I despise law? I understand the class struggle. I am not a law-abiding citizen. More than that, I do not believe you here ought to be law-abiding citizens."

"Take this statement for a starter—digest it carefully—then say if there is anything surprising in the advice which Ektor gave the striking hotel waiters in New York City only a year ago, as follows:

"If you have to go back under unsatisfactory conditions do so with your minds made up that it is the unfast food in the world for capitalists to eat food prepared by members of your union." In other words, what Ektor meant was, "Poison your capitalist customers." And that is only one of the infamous doctrines taught constantly by the I.W.W.

This command by Ektor was so startling that the newspaper reporters who were present could scarcely believe what they had heard and they asked Ektor to explain his words.

"They certainly speak for themselves," he answered. "It cannot be too plainly stated that incitement to violence is one of the fixed policies of the I.W.W."

Could anything be plainer? Could anything show more clearly the lawless character of the I.W.W. with its teaching of blood? Yet these vile doctrines are preached everywhere. Even in the eminently respectable New York Independent, in an article which ardently supported the Industrial Workers of the World, Andre Pridon wrote:

"The Industrial Workers of the World do not recognize the employers' right to live any more than a physician recognizes the right of typhoid bacilli to thrive at the expense of a patient, the patient merely keeping alive."

Moreover, says Joseph Fenton in the Paterson Press, this open advocacy of violence is not directed against the employers alone—just as frequently it is aimed at the workers themselves—the workers who are not willing to follow the leadership of men of the Haywood-Ektor stamp.

In Paterson, for example, it will be a long time before the workers forget the order that was given:

"Go out on the picket line; keep them out of the mills at all costs; no matter how you do it—keep them out of the mills."

And similar advice is given (and similarly acted upon) wherever the I.W.W. agitators assume control of the labor situation.

This vicious I.W.W. doctrine of violence, sabotage, anarchy and class hatred is today being taught from Maine to California and from Michigan to the Gulf of Mexico. It is being taught through literature printed in almost every language that is spoken; it is being preached from every platform to which one of these blatant demagogues can attract an audience, and it is by these fallacious arguments and fake appeals that many a strike has been inaugurated in this country during the past few years.

"It makes my blood boil to see so many hard-working men and women misled by these cowardly agitators," said John Golden in an interview in the New York World. "Haywood and Ektor and Quilman never take any risks themselves. Their policy is to say to the strikers, 'Go out on the picket line; take your pregnant women and little children so that the police will not dare to disperse you.' This was the advice they gave at Lawrence and other places, and then they would gather eagerly around the table to count the shekels, and even, as was amply proved from the records of the Needham House at Lawrence, which was the headquarters of the I.W.W., to dine and wine till the early hours of the morning when the poor, shivering dupes of strikers were just emerging from their homes with their pregnant women and little children to go out on the picket line. Those who had given the advice were just getting through their all-night carouse and tumbling into their warm hotel beds."

John Graham Brooks, who is by no means an unfriendly critic of the "one big union" (meaning the I.W.W. as it sometimes calls itself) has no hesitancy in asserting that, in times of economic trouble, the agitators resort to the most lawless tactics.

"In several western towns," he says, "I saw I.W.W. behavior of so palting a nature that no community known to me in the United States would have borne itself with dignity and law-abidingness. There is a line in Virgil which reads:

"If I could bend the powers above, I will rouse hell."

"The more bumptious of those raiding these towns had not even called upon the powers above." They were very open in their declaration that to 'raise hell' was one of their heart's desires."

To know how far the Industrial Workers of the World are willing to go in pursuit of their purpose, with what "practical" they look upon everything which stands for authority it is necessary to go no further than the I.W.W. publications.

Turn to the Industrial Worker and you will see what an I.W.W. devotee thinks of the American courts of law:

"What is a jury? It is a dozen embryonic murderers. All talk of justice is buncombe. There is no such thing. Any tactics which will win are justified." And again:

"What is the I.W.W.? Its members pay no allegiance to any imaginary boundary line. Being propertyless and landless, they have no patriotism. They are simply rebellious slaves. They stand committed to the doctrine of direct action," meaning sabotage, syndicalism and anarchy.

CALVIN'S NEW FIELD.

It was announced a few days ago that Edward E. Calvin, first vice-president of the Southern Pacific Railroad, had become general manager of the Oregon Short Line. We congratulate the Northwest on this acquisition.

Starting in a school of railroading whose basic principle was "charge all the traffic will bear," Mr. Calvin ascended the ladder of preferment as a Savonarola-like iconoclast who transposed the old mercenary motto of railroading to read "service—the best service we can give the people."

So Calvin became to many a standing example of the never era in the traffic world. As a shipper said yesterday: "He pointed the way in California to a unity of producing and transportation interests." Of this premise none will doubt who have called upon him in his San Francisco office or here and have been subjected to his keen, penetrating cross-examination as to the fluctuating desirability of Southern Pacific aid in the moving of crops or the upbuilding of segregated sections. To again misinterpret a trite saying, "Calvin was all ears when the interests of California were concerned."

That Calvin's efficiency as an empire builder will not come under a cloud in his larger duties in the Northwest, none who know him are willing to admit. He is a large man, both physically and mentally, and imbued with a large sense of his responsibility to the body politic.

A pupil in railroading of W. H. Bancroft, first vice-president of the Salt Lake and vice-president and general manager of the Oregon Short Line, Calvin's relations to that sterling railroad man have been almost those of an attentive and obedient son. So, when Bancroft asked to be relieved of the arduous duties of general manager of the Oregon Short Line and expressed the further wish that Calvin be his successor, the pupil acquiesced to the older man's wishes.

"A measure of the man," says, thrice yes, Calvin, instrumental, and largely so, in the upbuilding of California and of every State through which the Southern Pacific runs, has added to his domain fresh fields and pastures new in which he may be expected to obtain fresh converts to his propaganda of the "railroads shall serve" and profit thereby.

AIR LINES.

Aviators are studying the best air routes across the Atlantic. We suppose it makes no difference to them whether they are above land or water when once they are in the air. At least it makes no difference as long as they can keep going, and they would probably have no choice if it came to an involuntary descent. We have noticed a curious parallel to this in the experience of many persons. They pitch their lives at a point which leaves them oblivious to much that is beneath them. That is why a fever patient may escape bed and jump into a stream of cold water without catching cold. It is not a good thing to try, but it has been done. The temper and energy of the patient are above the condition of the body. He is simply not impressed. In the way there may be altitude of thought within the easy reach of us all which would ignore many petty aggravations and details of annoyance. If we can fly that high and land when we please without accident we can fly without being fought. All of these airship talks, inventions and experiments mean something besides just what they may seem. Anything which facilitates practical living also elevates mental and spiritual standards. Steam, electricity and gasoline mean a new way to think and act, and call into play fresh coils of the brain and possibly new faculties. An airship is just a symbol of moral, mental and spiritual growth on the part of all humanity. A little handful of men take to the skies, and everybody looks up when they do so. We speak with all reverence when we say that it is like the Ope being lifted up to draw all men unto Him. The sooner men see in any aspiration or device the symbol of increased faculty, aptitude and application the quicker will that particular dream be practicalized. A complete experience depends upon its spiritual recognition.

A Good Amendment.

[San Francisco Star:] It might be well to amend the initiative, referendum and recall law adding disfranchisement for a good long term of years to whatever other penalty attaches for the forger of names to a recall petition. And, en passant, also, that every petition bearing a percentage—over a small percentage—of forged names, shall go into the waste basket. Then the men who really desired a petition to go through would take care that it was not thus invalidated. The low-down creatures who are doing this dirty work and whom city officials are not able to prosecute are aiming, primarily, to bring into contempt the referendum measure. And it is a sorry thing to behold the "respectables" who would like to see the law discredited, blinking at the crime.

SCIENCE NOTES.

The Lowest Temperature.

[Dallas News:] For forty years past Kammerlingh Onnes has been spending his working life in a laboratory specially called into being for the production of the lowest temperatures attainable. For nearly twelve years there has been one goal before him; to liquefy the last gas which still resisted the greatest cold as yet experimentally produced. This gas was, as our readers know, helium, says the Scientific American.

A succession of workers, from Calliet and Pictet (who were the first to liquefy alleged "permanent" gases) down to Dewar, who liquefied hydrogen, had carried off brilliant victories in this field of science, but one gaseous element of our planet still refused to yield to all endeavors to evidence it in the liquid form: helium.

By an ingenious arrangement of successive temperature drops or "cascades," he first produced a temperature of -30 deg. Cent. by means of liquid methyl chloride, then -105 deg. to -145 deg. Cent. by means of liquid ethylene. Liquid oxygen then gave him temperatures extending from -183 to -317 deg. Cent. Hydrogen furnished the next step and down to -253 deg. Cent. Not until this point was reached did the actual operations with helium begin. It was compressed to over 75 atmospheres and cooled in a bath of liquid hydrogen, and at -253 degrees helium condensed to a bluish liquid, whose temperature, on boiling, fell to -271 deg. Cent. This is only two degrees above the absolute zero which, according to theory, is the lowest temperature attainable by any means whatever.

Calculations made by astronomers and physicists show that the temperature of interplanetary space is about -269 deg. Cent., a degree of cold which has thus been exceeded in the laboratory.

At these extremely low temperatures matter no longer behaves as at ordinary temperatures. The electrical conductivity of metals approaches infinity.

To produce these extremes of temperature it is necessary to work with minute quantities of gas and to use an exceedingly fragile and delicate apparatus.

Powerful Electric Locomotive.

[New Orleans Times-Democrat:] Two electric locomotives, capable of drawing 100 cars each, with a load of three tons to the car, now being used by a large American coal company, are the biggest of their kind in the world, and are the last word in this sort of mechanical construction.

A special feature is that each locomotive consists of two separate units which can be separated and used independently as fifteen-ton locomotives. It has been found that the use of two units in tandem is of advantage in such large engines because the weight is distributed over eight wheels instead of four. This distribution also makes less wear on the rails than concentration of wheels would cause. The doubling in the number of wheels naturally gives the locomotive more tractive power.

Another improvement is the use of bar steel in the framework construction instead of the usual steel plates. By this means cleaning, oiling and repairing are made an easy matter because of the large open spaces between the bars and continuous ventilation is given.

Crabrooks are used, owing to the greater ease in handling so large an engine, but each unit is equipped with handbrakes, which can be operated from the operating stand of the leading unit. The handbrakes are controlled independently on both units, and the two engines are disconnected through which the locomotive handles all four motors together. When the machine is used as two engines, the controller runs two motors, and the other two are managed by its own two-motor controller.

Work of Sunlight.

[Pittsburgh Dispatch:] The portion of sunlight active in producing chlorophyll in plants proves to be ultra-violet rays. The evidence is claimed by Prof. J. Stoklasa of Prague. Peas, maize, oats and barley were sown in moist sand, which was kept in a perfectly dark room at a temperature of 55 deg. Fahrenheit, and soon yielded a quantity of blanchet and fragile shoots. Of each of these shoots one-third was left in the dark chamber, another portion was exposed to the sun light, and the third part was placed in the rays of a mercury-vapor lamp. The dark-room portion remained white, soon withered and died. The plants in the sunshine gained some chlorophyll, though always remaining more yellow than normally-grown specimens, but the third, in the ultra-violet rays of the lamp, quickly became intensely green, retaining the color long after being cut and placed in water.

THE WELL-KEPT BODY FOR THE FAIR FIELD.

[Kansas City Star:] There is no better theory against intemperance these days than there used to be. There is no one who visits against the immorality of drink to day better than John B. Gough of two generations ago advised.

Yet vastly more young fellows are letting whisky alone than used to let it alone. Because the young men of this day have learned that sobriety is the best policy. And that cutting out of whisky and beer is only an example. The young men realize that the race is to the swift and the battle is to the strong.

These practical young men are your true reformers.

The athlete cannot win a race or a fight, or break a record, unless his body is in prime condition.

The business man cannot be alert and forceful, as he must be alert and forceful, if he neglects his body.

The activities of this time are such that the young chap must be at his best. He must be on tiptoes—energetic, eager for the fight or the frolic.

The well-kept body means the clear brain, the good understanding, the moral courage to face facts and to depend only on one's own powers without special favors in a fair field of endeavor.

How Fast We Live.

[Havre de Grace Republican:] Abraham Lincoln never said "Hello, central," never dodged an automobile, never held a strap in a trolley car, never pushed a button for light, never heard a phonograph and never posed for a motion picture, and yet Abraham Lincoln died only forty-eight years ago.

BEHIND BARS, OR SCAFFOLD?

Jury Sworn for the Trial of Young Bundy.

Twelve Aliens to Give Their Testimony.

Lives of Two Mothers Are Despaired Of.

Twelve men to decide whether Louis Bundy, 18 years old, shall live in prison or be hanged by the neck until dead for the murder of 16-year-old Harold Ziesche, were sworn in yesterday in Judge Willie's court, and the taking of testimony will be begun this morning.

Bundy lured the schoolboy to a lonely night-black house on Avenue 43, November 19, last, and crushed out his life with short-arm blows over the head with the saved-up handle of a pickax. He then robbed the boy of $20, "to give a girl a good time."

The youthful slayer admits every charge, but denies the responsibility. Six aliens will testify that he has been irresponsible since he was hit by a car and knocked unconscious with a baseball bat nine years ago. Six other aliens for the prosecution will testify that he is normal—even superior to the average man mentally and physically.

While the court drama was being enacted yesterday death hung over two mothers—the mother of the bright-faced Harold, who has gone forever, and the mother of Bundy. Mrs. Bundy has been in a critical state from the moment she learned of her boy's arrest on the terrible charge. Mrs. Ziesche, shocked almost to death from the moment she saw the crushed skull and chest of her son on the slab at the Receiving Hospital, was given a further setback yesterday when an officer of the law called at her home, No. 124 East Avenue 40, and asked her to testify for the prosecution. She swooned at the officer's feet and is in a critical condition.

FATHERS IN COURT.

Two fathers were in the courtroom yesterday—E. M. Ziesche, father of the dead boy, and David Bundy, father of the boy slayer, sat beside his son aiding in the battle he hopes will save him from the gallows. Ziesche followed every move of the court actors like a hawk. He sat just inside the rail nearest the jury box and directly behind young Bundy. He scanned the faces of the talesmen as they presented themselves to be chosen by Rogers and Dominguez and Deputy District Attorney Vetch. At his left sat Bundy's three sisters, dressed in black and dark blue and veiled, with the exception of Josephine, who sat on her brother's right and tried to cheer him. Bundy's father was as interested as Ziesche in the court proceedings. He, too, watched the prospective jurors. Whenever Rogers challenged a talesman and he was excused by the judge the father nodded approvingly. Bundy's sisters were deeply affected at times and occasionally blotted away a tear.

"I would not like to sit as a juror or judge in this case," said Ziesche. "Could you give him a fair and impartial trial?" he was asked. "I believe in the Bible," he said, "and you know the Bible says 'Whoever shall shed blood, by man shall his blood be shed.' His eyes then rested on young Bundy. "Is that the fellow?" he asked as he turned to his brother and said, "There he is. He had been in the courtroom over an hour and was so deeply interested in the selection of a jury he hopes will murder his son that he forgot to eat."

He had not noticed Bundy. It was the first time he had ever seen his boy's murderer in the courtroom. Photographs in the newspapers had shown him as a normal—even superior to the average man mentally and physically.

When Bundy came into court his old pose, bravado and carelessness, were gone. He slipped quietly into a chair and rested his chin on his hand, his eyes riveted to the floor, and he remained in that posture most of the time. Occasionally he shot a quick glance around the room from under his shaggy eyebrows, but except for that he gave no sign of even hearing the proceedings.

Scores of schoolboy and schoolgirl friends of Bundy and his sisters occupied seats and were deeply-interested spectators. It appeared more like a high school commencement than a murder trial.

After Vetch had given the prospective talesmen a brief history of the case Attorney Earl Rogers delivered an address to the jurors in which he admitted the defendant's guilt, but pleaded for his life. It was a unique situation—a self-confessed murderer pleading "not guilty" standing trial on a first-degree-murder charge and his attorney asking for life imprisonment for the slayer. Rogers says it is the first time in the history of a court that a prisoner has admitted all the charges against him and has asked a jury to fix the degree of his punishment.

There was some difficulty in getting a jury. The twelve men who will decide whether Bundy passes the remainder of life behind steel bars or goes to the gallows are: H. Korstian, Pasadena; M. Crum, Compton; F. George, San Dimas; F. Henderson, Pasadena; Cyrus Trueblood, Whittier; J. R. Johnson, Palms; G. Grimshaw, R. Owens, C. E. Cohen, J. G. Warren, Frank C. Yeoman and J. E. Wilson, Los Angeles.

The elder Ziesche will be the first witness called this morning. Mrs. Ziesche will not be called owing to her serious condition.

CHRISTMAS RIOT PLANNED.

Misdeeds Used by I.W.W. Malcontents at the Plaza Had Been Liberally Collected.

Preparations for the Christmas riot had made for the Christmas violence at the Plaza were exposed at the trial of the forty-two men under arrest in the Police Court yesterday.

Testimony, completely corroborated, showed that the stones and bricks thrown with such merciless and vicious intent during the rioting had been brought there for that purpose. None of the rocks were secured in the vicinity of the Plaza. The "ammunition" had been brought there for violent purposes, and could be classed only as "misdeeds."

The proof that the stones were imported was the only startling denouement of the day's hearing. The prosecution continued to present its case, identifying the various rioters and reciting the incidents that established the proof of identification. Hartman and his assistant, Horton, counsel for the I.W.W. malcontents, were unable to stop the condemning testimony throughout the day. The witnesses examined were Paul Immerguth, C. D. Shay, E. McDonald, R. Fouts, F. R. Williams, A. Boycott, H. Yarnell, T. Gillespie and W. Pomeroy.

GEN. CHAFFEE SELLS HOME.

Exchanges for Rialto Orange Grove But Does Not Contemplate Leaving Los Angeles.

Gen. Chaffee has exchanged his beautiful home on Magnolia avenue in the Westmoreland district for a valuable orange grove in Rialto, F. K. Davenport of this city is the other party to the transaction, handled by the A. W. Kinney Company. The Chaffee home is of Elizabethan architecture and its attractiveness is enhanced by well-kept lawns and garden.

Gen. Chaffee said yesterday that he does not contemplate leaving Los Angeles and that he and Mrs. Chaffee have taken apartments at the Poirer, Washington street and Union avenue. Whether or not he is to continue as president of the Great Republic Life Insurance Company depends on the election next month, he says.

with women and who blasphemes instead of worships. In the sanctified role of a religiousist, Potts cuts a bizarre figure.

WOMEN IN HOUSE.

When Potts was arrested there were two women in his house at No. 1414 Calumet street. One of the women is Mrs. Josephine Wilkins, wife of Loren E. Wilkins, formerly a clerk in the office of the superintendent of the Southern Pacific. She went under the name of Mrs. Baker, and kept a 4-year-old boy in the home. She is suing her husband for divorce, and an order of court, made in July, 1912, requires him to pay her $15 a month for the support of herself and child.

Wilkins is supposed to be in Salt Lake City, where he was last heard from, but he has not yet contributed to the support of his wife.

The other woman is Mrs. Blanche Gladden, a sister-in-law of Mrs. Wilkins. Mrs. Wilkins, who passed as Mrs. Baker, was formerly a housekeeper while Mrs. Gladden was paying for the privilege of living at the Potts home, according to Potts and others.

Mrs. Wilkins, who gave her story to The Times last night, said that she assumed the name of Baker because her husband had threatened to do her harm, as she has charged in a complaint for divorce, and she did not want him to know where she was living.

Because the crime for which Potts is accused occurred elsewhere, there is little or no evidence here that he is in doubt. But upon the general character of the man who went into jail with a Bible in his hands and a prayer on his lips, the authorities yesterday uncovered a line of scandal that uncovers the hypocrisy of a sanctified role.

MRS. WILKINS'S STORY.

Mrs. Wilkins, who is the daughter of a minister in an eastern city, was married to Roy Derr when a child, and later met Wilkins, who, besides being a railroad clerk, is a cartoonist.

"I was introduced to Mr. Potts by Mr. Beckman, a real estate man, who went to the Potts home on November 19, last, as a housekeeper, and I lived there for a short time. Blanche (Mrs. Gladden) who is my sister-in-law, went there to live with me, as I would not live in the house alone. Mr. Potts has always been an ideal father, and has been a perfect gentleman to both of us. He is a good man, so far as I know. He never was out at night and he never used bad language about the house. I never knew him until Mr. Beckman introduced us."

Mrs. Wilkins, who now goes by the name of Mrs. Helen Baker, says she does not want to get mixed up in the Potts case, for she detects notoriety. She and Mrs. Gladden last night packed their belongings and left the Potts home on Sunday. She is now in the home of a friend who has been keeping the 4-year-old boy of Mrs. Wilkins. Mrs. Perry McGarry, a sister-

BORN IN LOS ANGELES, DIES AT SEVENTY-TWO.

RICHARD LAUGHLIN, a pioneer of Los Angeles, and the son of a Southern California pioneer, passed away day before yesterday, and the funeral service will be conducted this morning at 9. Mass will be celebrated in the Sacred Heart Church, Richey and Baldwin streets, at that hour, the funeral party leaving the Paul undertaking parlor for the church a little earlier. Interment will be in Calvary cemetery.

Laughlin was born in this city March 7, 1842, and was of Irish and Spanish descent. His father, also named Richard, ran away from his home in Kentucky in 1824 with a party of adventurous young men led by J. O. Pattie. The young men set out from the Blue Grass State to seek their fortunes as trappers, each in whatever avenues opened to them.

The elder Laughlin reached San Diego and there met Miss Rubio, daughter of an old Spanish family, possessing much land, whom he married, and later they removed to Los Angeles.

One of the children was Richard. When he grew to manhood he became a landscape gardener, which profession he followed all his life. He was for many years connected with a landscape garden, and had charge of large private gardens.

Laughlin's wife was Miss Felipa Martinez, also born in this city, and a daughter of another old Spanish family, which also possessed a great deal of land. Mrs. Laughlin died five years ago. Their two children, who are still living, are Mrs. Rosa Borland of No. 510 South Thomas street, and Miss Elmyra Laughlin, living at the family home, No. 128 South Avenue Twenty-one. The deceased had been in ill health from asthma since in-law of Potts, is taking care of the home and the little son of Potts. The lad is afflicted with mumps.

WHITE SLAVERY CHARGE.

While the police were looking for the "woman in the case," for the assumption is made on the part of the Oregon authorities that another woman is projected into the case, they encountered the affair of William Rudolph and Johanna Boas Roskop, an Austrian girl. Rudolph, the son of a cafe proprietor, was shot by the Roskop girl in 1911 after he had refused to marry her. The girl was freed.

During the preliminary examination the girl testified that Rudolph had said Charles E. Potts $100 to take her to San Diego and force her into a life of shame. Rudolph admitted that he gave Potts the money to take the girl away, but denied that he asked Potts to make her lead a life of shame.

Charles M. Ackerman, attorney for Mrs. Wilkins, said last night: "Only on behalf of my client, Mrs. Wilkins, and to clear her good name, I wish to make a statement. She is unfortunate in having married a man who wouldn't support her or their child and still more unfortunate in having been a member of the Potts household at a time when it seems popular to link his name with scandal. She sued her husband for divorce and he filed a cross-complaint naming William Appel as one who had carried on a clandestine correspondence with her. The answer to the cross-complaint was filed and the case rested there. She has not yet procured a divorce. She is a good woman, and if the authorities in Oregon are looking for the triangle in the Potts case they won't find Mrs. Wilkins, or Mrs. Baker, as she calls herself, in the combination. She is not the 'other woman.'"

LETTER TO MAYOR.

The letter which was written to Mayor Rose last fall, accusing Potts of improper conduct with a woman and with robbery, was found by Detective Boden yesterday. It is written by Anna Sills, No. 512 West Fourth street, from which place she has since moved. The letter says, in part:

"My dear Mr. Rose: Hope you will excuse my boldness. It's very indiscreet. I know, but I want you to tell me a few things—advise me. My husband ran away because I would not give up my baby by the first husband. So I let him go. I don't know what to do, as I never worked in my life. I tried to get a position as a clerk, but they all say I can't live on the wages they pay an inexperienced girl. I went to a dance last night to forget my heartache and he was there. Then I left for home and two men held me up and made me go up to the Mission apartments, with a gun or revolver.

Then they pointed the revolver in my face and told me to give up my money—all I had was $5 and a nickel. I gave Mr. Potts $5. Now, if Los Angeles want to get rid of bad women, why don't they get rid of such men? Mr. Potts had a detective badge on the inside of his trousers at the waist line. I found out his name, seeing an envelope on his dresser. I begged him to let me go without giving up my money, but no—and now I owe $5 board for my child. I soaked my watch and two rings to pay it last night. Please let me know what I can do to such men. I am a good woman and if I let them say I never would do anything wrong."

Potts was away when this letter was written, but was arrested on his return to this city, but the Sills woman had disappeared meantime and he was released.

Potts said at the jail last night that he will not fight extradition when the Oregon authorities reach here Saturday. He said that he retained Oscar Lawler as his attorney, but this was vehemently denied last night by Lawler.

JEWEL OF THE HOME.

Death of Mother Who Devoted Life to Her Family and Was Mourning by a Community.

In the death of Mrs. Mrs. O'Connor, wife of J. J. O'Connor, which occurred yesterday at her home, No. 2122 East Third street, a community in which she lived most of its chief jewels—a mother who loved and lived for her home, the words of one who knew her, "just lived to cook and wash and us all happy at home."

Mrs. O'Connor was but 32 years of age, and lived in Los Angeles seven years, coming here with her husband and little children from Grand Rapids, Mich. She was the mother of a large family, and was very interested in the welfare of her children. She was a devoted wife and mother, and her death is a great loss to her family and to the community.

The funeral service will be conducted Friday afternoon at 2 o'clock at the residence and will be in charge of Rev. J. J. O'Connor.

Is the American Girl Pretty? Here's Evidence That She Is!

Look at this bevy of beauties and form your own opinion of Donald O'Brien.

The mysterious chap with the funny name is trying his best to ridicule the American girl. Just because I need only two girls' pictures day before yesterday he tries to show that it is because beauties are few and far between, and when I defend the tango, he predicts the downfall of the nation. Yet even on a rainy day, by scarce turning over my hand, I show you beauty in all walks of life from the five o'clock tea to the deck of a yacht and the mountain wilds. As for the dance being the downfall of the nation, it is not. The minstrel was never so popular as during the Revolution, and that period marked the birth of the greatest nation in the world.—Gardner Bradford.

STOVALL IS GOING EAST.

Federal League Scout Flits in Three Weeks.

Spent Day with Snodgrass, Fromme and Wilson.

Denies that He Mentioned Federal League.

George Stovall has practically wound up his operations in gathering material for the Federal League. At least he will not admit going after any more players outside of a few he expects to look over when he arrives in the East.

He will stick around here until February 14. About that time he will leave for Kansas City, where he will have a conference with the officials of his club and look into the offers for training quarters in the South.

Several players have been offered for the team, but Stovall has not given the idea much attention at present.

Stovall was reported as being after Wilson, Snodgrass and Fromme, all of the New York Giants. Then when the four were in company all yesterday afternoon, considerable weight was given the rumor. Questioned last night, however, the Kansas City leader, while denying that he had anything in a baseball way to do with the men, refused to deny in so many words that he was considering landing them.

It is reported that you have signed Wilson, Snodgrass and Fromme. Is there anything in it?" was the first question put to him.

"No, I was with them in the afternoon, but did not mention baseball."

"Are you considering such a thing as approaching them?"

"Well, I have just about as many men as I can handle now and am not crazy about getting too many more."

"Are you going to get any more men?" That is any who are now in this section?

"If I sign any more they will probably come from this end of the country, but I am not figuring on many more. Of course I have my eye on several men in the East and will look them over when I go back."

So there it is. You probably know as much as any one else about it now. George is as talkative as a class.

DAD MEEK A HOLD-OUT.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

PORTLAND (Or.) Jan. 27.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Harry (Dad) Meek, the catcher secured by Los Angeles in a trade with the Victoria North-western League club, is dissatisfied with the salary offered by Manager Dillon of the Angels. Meek received his contract Saturday and returned it unsigned.

Meek did not mention the salary he called for but said: "If the next one does not call for more money I will stay right here."

Meek is managing a local bowling alley and if he plays ball this season he will resume his position as manager at the close of the 1914 season.

A SLAM AT D. O'BRIEN.

Donald O'Brien has become infamous. Foolish, reckless creature, to exhibit his ignorance to the world. What does he know of beauty who never beauty knew? Obviously he is a connoisseur. There are still a great many people in the world who admire near-Brunelles carpets, chromographs, mouth organs, stewed eels, Nottingham lace curtains, cut-glass diamonds, and red paper Christmas decorations.

There are still men who would smoke a nickel cigar with ecstasy if it had cost them 50 cents. Who would drink wood alcohol with relish if they purchased it in champagne bottles. On such as these the opinionated brands are wasted. Who would expect a yodel to appreciate caviar? To him it would be a "nasty mess." In the golfing way that Donald O'Brien can see no charm in the American girl.

Forgive him, sisters, he knows not what he does. The American girl is the quintessential essence of military charm. To the connoisseur of women she is the radiant best in all the world. If she has limp shoulders and a silly stomach, there take it from me, limp shoulders and silly stomachs are the standard of beauty.

BENKELEY, Jan. 27.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The graduate manager of the University of California issued this afternoon to a representative of The Times the following statement:

OWEN MORAN QUILTS COLD.

(A. P. STORY WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

NEW YORK, Jan. 27.—In the first of the two international bouts at Madison Square Garden tonight Johnny Dundee trounced "Bopper" O'Neill of England. The local fighter conceded nine and three-quarter pounds to the visiting pugilist, who weighed 118 pounds, but forced the fighting from the start. O'Neill showed gameness, but was unable to keep the lighter man away.

In the second bout Owen Moran of England, after receiving severe punishment from "Young" Shugrue of Jersey City, quit at the end of the seventh round. In that round Shugrue landed several rights and lefts to the head and then made the body his target. Moran claimed one of the body punches was foul.

Moran weighed in at 128 pounds, Shugrue at 123 1/2.

WOLGAST TO BE HAILED BEFORE THE COMMISSION.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

MILWAUKEE, Jan. 27.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) The Wisconsin Boxing Commission today notified Ad Wolgast to appear next Saturday and explain why he violated the rules by holding and hitting in his bout with Joe Rivers at Dreamland last Friday night. The commissioners claim that the Dutchman did not break clean from every clinch.

This is true, but the offense in the respect were infrequent and the few times they did occur were when the boys were engaged in a furious exchange of punches.

"We want Wolgast to give his side of the case before we take action," said Secretary Vangun of the commission.

LEFTY LEIFIELD LIKELY TO RETIRE FROM BASEBALL.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) That "Lefty" Leifield, San Francisco twirler, is seriously considering permanent retirement from baseball, is a report that comes via the underground passageways. According to a local enthusiast, who says he knows what he is talking about, Leifield has written a friend in San Francisco of his prospective plans.

"Don't be surprised," says the man who knows. "If Leifield turns down his San Francisco contract and quits baseball for all time to come, Lefty is interested in a grocery store and saloon in St. Louis with his brother. If you know anything about St. Louis, you know how good a proposition that is. At all events, Leifield says the business is getting along so nicely that he believes he would do better by himself to stay there instead of joining the San Francisco club."

Local baseball headquarters have had no word from Leifield.

HOWARD WANTS DEFINITE INFORMATION FROM ORVIE.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

SAN FRANCISCO, Jan. 27.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Manager Del Howard of the Seals has requested Orvie Overall to let him know not later than the first of February just which way the cat is going to jump. On receipt of the letter from the ex-Club twirler, in which he intimated that he was still undecided as to whether he would remain in baseball, Howard sat down and wrote a long letter. The sum and substance of the letter was a request for additional word from Overall, and also he asked of the twirler that he make up his mind by February 1, in order to allow the local club to get lined out for a new twirler. In the event that Overall should decide against baseball.

"I still have great hopes that Overall will be with the Seals," said Howard.

"At the same time, we have got to know one way or the other just what he is going to do, so that we can decide on our own plans."

LIONS AND ACROBATS, PANTAGES ATTRACTIONS.
IT'S A QUESTION of the lions or the acrobats at Pantages Theater this week.
Both—or, rather, all ten—are wonderfully exciting, but whereas the acrobats give you only thrills and palpitations of the heart, the lions produce thrills, palpitations, gooseflesh and cold feet. Therefore, the lions must be adjudged the headliner in vaudeville as well as in the jungle.
Peter Taylor has eight of these roaring beasts. Peter is rightly named—he is rock, adamant, steel in the face of those eight amazing and mauling bunches of powerful muscles and malignant hate. Peter is lithe and slender, young and dark-eyed. His looks belie his Anglo-Saxon name, but his nerve corroborates it. Perhaps the lions love their debonaire trainer—but if they do, they manage to hide their real feelings very successfully. You are made to feel, and most unpleasantly, that each one of them, the lions and the lionesses, would like to crunch and munch every one in his body.
Peter Taylor's act is undoubtedly one of the most thrilling animal acts ever seen in circus or on stage. He prods and whips his proteges to frenzied madness before he enters the cage of howling horrors, and then proceeds to bait and lash them some more, making them move from one pedestal to another till they are all arranged around him in a statuesque group. Daniel's little scene was a picnic compared to Peter's. If you want your nerves jangled out of tune, racked into rags, and watch Peter at play with his pets.
But let us turn to the acrobats, the famous European equilibrist, the Armenian. Strictly speaking, there is only one Arnesen, a neat and compact young man who knows how to distribute himself so as to remain poised in any position he pleases, almost on the point of a finger. The other and older Arnesen seems to be his trainer—strictly speaking, there he must be to get such marvelous results from his pupil. The last and crowning effect in this fine act is when young Arnesen walks a steel wire strung from the stage to the gallery, and then slides on his head down this steep-inclined rod.
The two Pochay Brothers imitate every known bird note, from that of the rooster to that of the canary, and every known sound, from that of the hawkeye to that of the steamboat. They are clever boys, with a sense for fun mixed up with their unusual larynxes.

Singing, dancing and general rough stuff are offered by the Tony Cornetta Trio, two men and a little maid. They are made up as three school kids, a Jew boy, a Dago boy and a nice little girl with curls. The girl is as spry as a cricket, as merry as a bird, and the boys slapstick and enjoy themselves.
Saxophones are the weapons of the Novelty Quartette, four men of varying sizes. Max Fisher comes again with some of his delightfully artistic violin playing. The moving pictures show us how our finest drilled not long ago out in the baseball grounds.

Pavlova.
At last, after two days and three nights, battling with the forces of nature, the Pavlova special reached Los Angeles last night, 12 o'clock, with the wonderful Pavlova and her captivating associates of the dance, and those others who make sweet music for the dancers in their poetic fairyland.
They will positively appear at the Auditorium tonight in a series of Terpsichorean novelties that have charmed all Europe and America. Pavlova, the incomparable, and two dozen fascinating solo dancers, two score of fairy corymbes will glide and sway and bend and pirouette with sylphlike grace, vibrating to the harmonies of the symphony orchestra in beautiful regions of life and color.
The past week in San Francisco these dancers enraptured the whole city, so much so that a return engagement has been arranged for next Sunday and Monday. Pavlova, who has lifted dancing to the fine arts, will be seen in six of the most attractive programme in which she or any dancer has appeared.

Josef Hofmann.
After trying boats, automobiles, special trains, owing to severe storms, Josef Hofmann, the pianist, was unable to reach Los Angeles last night in time for the Philharmonic recital at the Auditorium. After repeated trials the railroads and boat lines cannot deliver the artist until some time Thursday, which is ample time for the Friday afternoon recital. All tickets for last evening will be made good for the Friday afternoon, but those holding seats should return them early to the box office to secure good locations. The concert has been arranged at 8 o'clock, so that teachers and students can avail themselves of the only chance to hear Hofmann this season.

Mosart.
Persons who read with interest of the red on the cheeks, on the lips, and a touch of black pencil are compulsory, it seems, on the vaudeville stage. And as he industriously scrubbed the grease paint, he explained that people look too pale in the reflected light, and this embellishment, very much against his real boy's taste, was necessary.

While these young artists are of local fame and winning their first spurs, the act, clever and attractive, would call for lesser comment if it was not an inspiration for so many young people desirous of entering a musical career.

What Wallenstein and Miss Freehey have so successfully undertaken shows that if one has talent and is willing to reach a higher goal, all roads are good enough to start the climb.

HURT HANGING OUT CLOTHES.
Mrs. B. Marguria, 32 years old, of No. 337 1/2 Commercial street, while hanging out clothes, on the roof of her home shortly after 6 o'clock last night, slipped and fell through a skylight to the floor below. She sustained a fractured skull, a broken collar-bone and severe lacerations on legs and arms. She was sent to the French Hospital. Her condition is serious.

MOTORCYCLISTS INJURED.
Luther Moore of No. 1431 East Eighteenth street, a motorman for the Los Angeles Electric Railway, and Miss Carmen Meadows of No. 130 East Third street, Long Beach, riding tandem on a motorcycle, were struck by an automobile at Forty-fifth street and Central avenue last night. At the Receiving Hospital it was found that Moore had had most of his left calf torn away, and his companion had been severely cut about the legs and arms.

Bishop Favors Greater Church Service in Future

Three New Parishes 'Admitted to the Convention.

(BY DEBRY WINE TO THE TIMES)
SAN FRANCISCO BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 27.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Beginning its session with the benediction of the crypt of Grace cathedral, at California and Jones streets, the Episcopal Diocese of California met this morning in its sixty-third annual convention, with hundreds of lay and clerical delegates drawn from the churches of the diocese.

At the hour of the convocation the archdeacon and churchwomen, led by cathedral choir of men and boys, dressed by the vested clergy and the priest, moved in procession from the dean house on Sacramento street, and to the cathedral crypt and ended, singing a hymn of rejoicing. The Rt. Rev. William Ford Nichols, bishop of California, read the brief rite of benediction of the crypt, which occupies the completed basement of what is to be the new Grace

Rev. Nichols celebrated holy communion with the parish. The bishop was assisted by Rev. John Hakewell as epistolar and by the Rev. L. C. Sanford, of the San Joaquin, as co-officiant. The service Bishop Nichols presided over the year just past, and the work for year greater service on the part of the church in the future. While the church is in the hands set forth by the bishop as the annual report of the diocese, the nominations for the seven standing committees and boards of the diocese during the ensuing year were made and the report was read upon today. The rest of the was occupied in the consideration of minor amendments to the constitution. The 12 parishes were admitted to the convention of the diocese—the of the Incarnation, a mission community in San Francisco; St. Peter's parish in Oakland, and Christ the Mission of Los Altos. A message of congratulations was sent to the bishop of Moreland and the diocese of Sacramento by the bishop's 50th anniversary in that office. The diocesan convention was a preliminary business, the of Churchwomen was holding a session, listening to reports of the various committees and to an address by the bishop.

Drama.

(Continued from Seventh Page.) made its bow Monday night, as hard hit, as folks were afraid to stay around after the show and dance and it was impossible to get to Blackwood's refreshment booth.

Hence, the announcement that there will be Thursday and Saturday matinees and I might add, that inasmuch as John has brought a real matinee idol to town, it behooves the ladies to be on deck.

Forrest Winant is his name, by the way, and he came to us almost unheralded, which is that much more to his credit. He plays the philosopher-vagabond regular, Francois Villon role, and is making an unusual hit in the character.

I ran into Harry James on the mail yesterday, feeling as good as they make 'em, owing to the success of "Pretty Mary Smith." They have shortened and revamped the show and now it is going strong. "All right," needed was a little finger, was the way James explained it.

Of all the shows bound for Los Angeles I think "Kismet" was the luckiest. You see, it was playing Oakland and all it had to do was cross the dumb-bell formation with low pressure areas centered in Northern Idaho and Southern Nevada and the storm would be over.

Speaking of this show, reminds me that there are two box offices, thus helping to eliminate the necessity of a long line. At least that is what Wyatt said, but my informant says that it simply means two long lines instead of one.

And principally because the Mason is so close to The Times I ran over there last night and this happened to be in time to see little Clella Van Pelt, and Eddie Chalmers, their tangy, they dance an exhibition of ten minutes and then teach for ten, while the Boruff reels are being changed, and the stunt is a great success.

Harry Girard is all excitement over the coming debut at the Orpheum next week of his new show, "The Luck of the Totem." But why! Already it is an assured success, for Harry has a capital male chorus with him, and this of itself is novelty enough to please, regardless of the merits of the sketch.

Now I am up a tree. Those of you who read this column every day may remember that in answer to a question I stated that Lawrence Barrett, names a student of the Branigan was the family name.

My authority was every book of biography I ever read, and just to make sure, the latest edition of the Britannica. Dimmock, 1909 Washington street, this city, which rings so true that I cry for help.

Storm Damage.

(Continued from First Page.) kept it stable, however, while a train of cars loaded with rock weighed down the bridge against damage in the intervals that trains were not crossing.

Along the coast from Santa Barbara to San Diego the mounting waves from the storm which hit the mountains, joined to create high waters that forced many from their dwellings. In the valleys of streams, the Santa Ana River, which was drowned by the feeding water, high winds along the coast resulted in the flouting of storm signals yesterday, while the higher mountains were covered with snow.

A romance of science is the tale told by Local Forecaster Carpenter of the progress of the storm which conferred on us 14.75 inches of rain up to 6 o'clock yesterday, as against 2.95 inches last year and a seasonal average of 7.51 inches, and which visited San Diego yesterday with a rainfall of 2.14 inches.

Origin of the storm, which was the storm swung southward Saturday to a central location off the North Pacific coast, then swung inward Sunday to a location just west of the coast, the storm was precipitated an unusual rainfall Monday. Yesterday, the storm moved had divided into what the Weather Bureau called a dumb-bell formation, with low pressure areas centered in Northern Idaho and Southern Nevada and the storm would be over.

ONLY ONE WAY. Last night the sole line of rail connection with the north was over the Santa Fe, via the Coronado line, which was being kept in service by frantic effort. Across the mountains, the joint track of the Santa Fe and Southern Pacific from Monte Vista and Boulder, the Salt Lake and Southern Pacific had restored connections by the liberal dumping of rock and dirt into washes and by the hurried building of trestles.

Branch line troubles for the railroad continue. The Salt Lake has no San Pedro service because of a washout at Workman, nor any Pasadena service because of washouts at Sycamore Grove and Highland Park, which have left gaps of 15 and 20 miles respectively in the track. East the settling bridge between Pomona and Ontario, which threatened Monday to slide into the stream, was repaired yesterday, to permit of the passage of trains.

The Southern Pacific, hardest hit of all, had a consolidated train out at 10:15 o'clock last night for San Francisco and a consolidated train in from the north over the Santa Fe. Between Ventura and Santa Barbara over the coast line, washouts were reported, while the Santa Paula branch has as many. No service over these lines is promised under four or five miles, though the Santa Paula line is as far as the damaged tunnel through the Newhall hills, went into commission yesterday.

ESPEE BY SEA. With 300 passengers marooned at Santa Barbara, San Luis Obispo, Carpinteria, and other coast towns, the Southern Pacific was forced yesterday to offer sea transportation to its delayed passengers. The Santa Clara of the North Pacific Steamship Company, which left San Francisco yesterday, was chartered to take the passengers to the coast line, where the Santa Clara was to pick up the stranded San Luis Obispo and Santa Barbara passengers and bring them in here tomorrow. The north-bound passengers will be handled on the steamer Bear of the San Francisco and Portland Steamship Company, which will leave here at noon today.

Excuse for the line from Del Rey to Hyperion because of tides which undermined the track, the Pacific Electric is resuming its normal service yesterday. Beach service was curtailed necessarily and unwillingly, however, by the fact that the Catalina Island boats were withdrawn from service because of the thirty-five miles an hour wind which was predicted by the Weather Bureau's storm warnings at the harbor, Redondo Beach, Venice and Santa Monica.

BROAD WET SHEET. Though the San Gabriel and Santa Ana rivers were swollen to overflowing, the Pacific Electric offered no service to Santa Ana. The cause was a 500-foot sheet of water covering the entire country to the north of the river, which put the company's bridge five feet under water. On the Long Beach line service was also curtailed by the weakened condition of the Los Cerritos bridge, while washouts on the Long Beach-San Pedro line also tied up service.

Public Service: City Hall, Courts.

SUMMARY OF THE DAY.

The Board of Public Utilities reached a tentative agreement yesterday on the natural and mixed gas rates and will decide today. No figures are given out, but it is contended that the natural gas rate will be 55 cents and for the mixture 61 cents—a reduction of 3 cents per 1000 cubic feet over present prices.

The Independent Civic League yesterday asked the Council to suspend the salaries of Chief Electrical Engineer Scott and his assistants until there are bonds voted to local people the power project and that the salary of Chief Engineer Mulholland of the Los Angeles aqueduct be cut in half.

Moneta-avenue residents are indignant over the storm waters they allege are unjustly discharged on their thoroughfare and propose to call a meeting to discuss suing the city for damages.

A will contest started in Judge Meador's court yesterday by a distinguished son prominent to be of the most bitter ever tried in the local courts. An estate of a retired lumberman, valued at $500,000, is involved.

At the City Hall.

MAY FIX NATURAL GAS RATE TODAY.

BOARD HAS REACHED TENTATIVE AGREEMENT ON PRICE.

Will Confer with Public Utilities Committee of Council Before Formal Meeting—Mixture to Be Piped at Half and Half as Basis for Rate-Making.

In all probability the Board of Public Utilities today will fix the rate on natural gas and on the mixture of natural and artificial gas. The board yesterday reached a tentative agreement, but it proposes to hold a conference this forenoon with members of the Council's Public Utilities Committee, in anticipation of final action at the formal meeting of the board this afternoon.

The board has agreed upon a basis of a half-and-half mixture of the two gases for rate-making purposes, as the Council demands that a rate be given on the mixed gas, as well as on the natural product.

Rumors were current around the City Hall yesterday that the natural gas rate would be anywhere from 55 cents to 65 cents. The members of the board reached a tentative agreement, however, that the natural gas rate will be 55 cents per 1000 cubic feet, based on a wholesaling price of 14 cents and a distributing cost of 38 cents. The artificial gas rate is 70 cents per 1000 cubic feet. The total cost of the city at the above basis, would be $1.23, making the rate for the mixture, on the half-and-half agreement, 61 cents per 1000 cubic feet for the mixed gas—a reduction of 3 cents per 1000 feet over what the gas consumer now pays.

Want Salaries Suspended. The Independent Civic League yesterday filed a communication to the City Council, Board of Public Works and Public Service Commission in which resolutions are presented setting forth that should the bonds for the power project be exhausted and workers are discharged, Chief Electrical Engineer Scott and his assistants should be suspended until such time as work shall be resumed upon appropriations and funds properly and efficiently provided.

The resolution, which was signed by the salary of Chief Engineer Mulholland of the Los Angeles aqueduct, which is now $15,000 a year, be reduced one-half, on the grounds that the construction work has been completed practically and the responsibility and work since such completion does not warrant the paying of $15 per day for the services of an engineer.

Objects to Torpedoes. W. H. Engle, who represented residents of Edendale, appeared before the Council's Public Safety Committee yesterday to ask for relief from what he declares is an intolerable condition in that neighborhood caused by the exploding of torpedoes on the tracks of the Pacific Electric line, used as signals in switching cars. Engle claims that the noise is nerve-racking and that as many as twenty-two torpedoes have been exploded in front of his home in one night. The committee decided to ask representatives of the company to appear before it next Tuesday.

MORE TRANSFERS. POLICE BOARD ACTION.

The Police Commission yesterday took the following action on liquor permits: A transfer was granted of the No. 1 restaurant liquor permit for No. 731 East Third street from Robert Bruce Johnson to Rufus Hille. The board granted transfer of the saloon permit for No. 112 East First street from Hickson & O'Donnell to Hickson & O'Donnell. A wholesale permit was granted to James L. Wal, who has purchased the wholesale liquor business and stock of the Sun Drug Company at No. 551 South Broadway. Val's location is at No. 842 North Alameda street.

The board denied the application for a restaurant liquor permit of the No. 1 class for No. 113 South Spring street.

Would Close These Blocks. Petitions were before the Police Commission yesterday asking for the closing of three blocks in the liquor zone to the issuance of further wholesale or retail liquor permits.

One of these is for the closing of the block on South Hill, between Fourth and Fifth streets; another is for South Hill, between Eighth and Ninth streets; and the third is for Main, between Second and Third streets.

W.C.T.U. Delegation. The Los Angeles W.C.T.U. federation has made arrangements to have two of its representatives present at each meeting of the Police Commission hereafter, in order to make reports on the commission's work. The delegation, headed by Mrs. Marion Boyd, made its first appearance at yesterday's meeting.

Positions at the Harbor.

The Harbor Commission yesterday permanently appointed G. M. Morgan as Collector of Harbor Revenue. Morgan has been filling the place under emergency appointment. He stood the highest of seven candidates for the place in the civil service examinations.

F. H. Gridley of this city and W. H. Hall of Redondo Beach have filed their applications for appointment to the position of warehouseman.

May See the City.

Representatives of the Moneta Avenue Improvement Association have appealed to the Board of Public Works for relief from the large volume of storm water that is discharged down that street. They allege that a considerable proportion of the water which should flow down South Main street has been diverted to Moneta avenue by the City Engineer's declaration that the latter street is receiving only its proper proportion.

The association is to hold a meeting Friday night at 8 o'clock for the purpose of suing the city for damages because of conditions that it is alleged are due to the engineer's department.

Would Head Off Widening.

As a means to head off the project for making West First street a 120-foot boulevard, property owners yesterday filed a petition in which they protest against such widening and ask the Council to start proceedings for the paving and improvement of West First street from Fremont to Commonwealth avenue, and Temple street from Vermont avenue to the western city limits, with sidewalks ten feet in width, leaving a clear roadway of sixty-two and a half feet.

Municipal Notes.

Building Superintendent Backus has filed a report recommending that it would be practicable to build an addition to the City Hall at Wilmington for housing motor-driven fire apparatus and providing quarters for six firemen, at a cost of $200,000. Instead of the erection of a one-story fire house, which Backus says would cost $10,000 in addition to the cost of the lot.

The City Council yesterday approved the ordinance necessary to put the public bath-house at Vignes and Ducommun streets in usable condition.

The Humane Animal Commission was instructed by the City Council yesterday to draw a demand for $1500 on its departmental fund for the repayment of pound fees collected from Charles Liechtenberger for an animal over which there has been much controversy.

The Police Commission is not satisfied with the action of the City Council in refusing to order for public safety the closing of streets between Main and Los Angeles streets. Complaints were made to the board yesterday that nightly controversies over religious subjects occur there and that frequent fights have resulted. The board will ask the Council to reconsider the appointment of Samuel P. Baines as a special policeman for a district in Hollywood and William H. Allan for minor service in Garvanza.

The Board of Public Works yesterday awarded the contract for disposing of street sweepings in one district of the city. In other districts the street department is instructed to dispose of street sweepings in small lots as they may be applied for, the bid received not being considered sufficient.

The Pacific Electric Company made application for a franchise yesterday for a double track line for the car at Sixth street and Corda avenue with the southern end of the proposed new Arcade Depot. The franchise for a turn-out at Sixth street and Pacific avenue, San Pedro.

At the Courthouse.

WILL CONTEST WILL BE BITTER.

ESTATE OF WEALTHY LUMBERMAN IS INVOLVED.

Disinherited Son Brings Suit on the Ground that Father Was Not of Sound Mind—Former Arizona Legislator Takes Rock-Pile Cure for Drunkenness.

The battle for the $500,000 estate of Frank H. Holyoke, a retired lumberman and capitalist of Bangor, Me., who died at the Hotel Maryland, Pasadena, October 3, 1911, promises to be one of the most notable from the point of view of bitterness ever tried in the local courts. It embraces astounding allegations, and brings from far-off Maine a bevy of witnesses who will take sides for the widow, Cora M. Holyoke, and the son by a former wife, who were practically disinherited, and two attractive girls, nieces of Holyoke, who under the will, receive the bulk of the fortune.

One side of the long table in the courtroom was taken up yesterday by the lawyers, Flint and Jutten, with whom are associated F. G. Cruikshank and H. L. Harding for Sydney Holyoke, the contestant; Hahn and Hahn, and former Judge Louis C. Stearns of Bangor, Me., for the will. Immediately behind the counsel Miss Madeline and Miss Marjorie Holyoke, twin sisters, 20 years old, who if the contest fails, will receive approximately $250,000 each by their uncle's will, watched the proceedings with curious eyes. In the courtroom sat the widow, whose good name was smirched in her husband's will.

The attack on the will is based on the alleged unsoundness of mind of Holyoke, as the first witness called yesterday to prove this was Mrs. Agnes Brooks-Neblitt, an English nurse. One instance she related was that Holyoke asked her to go to the bureau and get his watch and diamonds.

"I have barely started when he called me back," she testified, "and asked me if I had chased the chickens out. Immediately I answered I had. All night long he was chasing chickens from the foot of the bed and in the morning he was very, very tired." In her opinion, Holyoke was of unsound mind. From a tall, portly man he had wasted away at the time of his death to a mere shadow. Holyoke made his first appearance at the trial of his first wife. Holyoke's fortune was inherited mainly in stocks and bonds. He and brother, Caleb, inherited from their father, a Bangor, Me., banker, the former added to the fortune. He had been married three times, Sydney A. Holyoke and Harry Douglas Holyoke being the wives by his first wife. He was divorced from the first and second wives, and for some time previous to his death his third wife had left him and had brought suit in Bangor for divorce.

Two months before he died Holyoke executed the will now under attack. He left the City of Bangor $4000 in trust to maintain a family burial plot; the Children's Home at Bangor, Me., $25,000; the Bangor Theological Society, $15,000; Hahn for Aged Men, Bangor, $10,000, and the Brewer Public Library, $5000. The residue was left in trust to A. B. Taylor and Edwin F. Hahn for Miss Madeline and Miss Marjorie Holyoke, until they reach the age of 21 years. The charitable bequests approximate $34,000.

Holyoke wrote in his will that he gave his wife $1000, having already given her $2000 after the separation. He having discovered, she having confessed, he said, that she was unfaithful to him.

The alleged unfaithfulness of Mrs. Holyoke and the fact that Sydney and Harry Holyoke, the sons, had not communicated with their father for thirteen years, will be set up as reasons why they were cut off.

On the other hand, the contestant will try to show that his father was a hard drinker, a hard worker, a "vile toward God and religious institutions." Holyoke is said to have counted from one to two quarters of whisky a day. Nurse Brooks-Neblitt testified that he swore practically every minute of the time he was away from home. When asked to repeat the language she appealed to the jury and was relieved of reproducing Holyoke's profanity.

ROCK PILE CURE.

The rock pile gang gained a distinguished member yesterday in the person of E. C. Crouch, a former member of the Arizona Legislature, who at his own request was sentenced for failing to support his wife and four children.

Having lost, through drink, everything that life held dear, Crouch pressed the hope to Deputy District Attorney Jones that through enforced labor in the departmental fund he would back his health for another battle with the world.

He went almost gaily to the County Jail, determined to regard the prison as a blessing. For nine months he will be free from the temptation of drink. Crouch will make his court appearances while he will eat plain food and keep regular hours at night.

Only the iron rod of discipline will be able to accomplish the reformation Crouch desires. Everything else has failed and in the fight to reclaim himself, Mrs. Crouch will stand back of her husband, remembering the days when he held position and wealth.

Crouch's brother is chaplain of the United States penitentiary. For many years has been interested in prison reform work. At one time he was a missionary among the Indians. When Crouch left Arizona, he came to California and was appointed manager of the National Lumber Company at Pomona. This job slipped away from him as others did.

Although he was told that his application for probation would be considered, Crouch declined to take advantage of the court's clemency and asked for immediate sentence.

PECULIAR INFLUENCE.

WOMAN AND HER CHAUFFEUR. The alleged peculiar influence exerted over Jessica Jamison, the 29-year-old daughter of J. H. Jamison, a well-to-do junk dealer at No. 713 Mateo street, may be pleaded if Bain, the young woman's chauffeur, is charged with contributing to her dependency. All of the parties are colored. Miss Jamison, who is known among her friends as "the last word from Paris."

Bain is being held for forgery. The only witness against him was Miss Jamison, who was also charged with signing her father's name to checks, but was not prosecuted because her mother withdrew the charge against her.

Yesterday Deputy District Attorney Keetch laid the information before Deputy District Attorney McCarty of the juvenile court, which McCarty expects to base the contributing charge. The story as Keetch related it is an interesting chapter.

Miss Jamison testified in a preliminary charge that Bain frequently talked to her of what he would do if he had certain sums of money. Having a power of attorney from her father to sign checks, she said she drew checks, signing her father's name. Bain cashed them. Jamison finally discovered that his daughter was buying automobiles and other things with his money. Both were playing it in his business, and withdrew the power of attorney.

Approximately $1000 were obtained by the young woman. The money bought two automobiles and a house at Sierra Madre, where Bain is said to have lived. He is married.

TO EARN OWN LIVING.

MEANWHILE GETS ALIVELY. Having been cast aside for another woman, Mrs. Della Pratt stated in the divorce court yesterday that she is preparing to earn her own living after graduating from a business college. She was granted a decree, and her husband, Dr. Armstrong C. Pratt, ordered to pay her $50 a month for three years.

Dr. Pratt sprang into the political limelight when he ran against Calvin Hartwell for Governor and was defeated. He seemed to have succeeded better in love, for Mrs. Pratt named Sue Saunders as a rival and the Avon apartments on Eton Avenue stand as a trying place. Dr. Pratt was married September 12, 1899, at San Bernardino. He is alleged to have left his wife in May, 1913.

JUST LIKE A CHICKEN.

ONE LAWSUIT AFTER ANOTHER. Al G. Stone, a Bangor, Me., who knows a thing or two about a circus, inasmuch as he owns a large one, has been attending court so much lately that he believes he could qualify as a lawyer. First there was Fred Barlow's suit against him for alienating the wife of his brother, who is his sister-in-law. This was fought out with victory for Stonehouse.

Stonehouse against the Al G. Barnes Show Company, asking for half of the property of the twenty-four-car circus on the basis of a partner, and Stonehouse's suit, alleging she has fraudulently obtained $15,500 from the proceeds of the sale of tickets, she having been employed, he alleges, to sell tickets at a large remuneration.

Stonehouse testified yesterday that she contributed materially to the organization of the circus which started on a showsting. She sold a 15-acre farm to raise money to pay expenses while the show was on the road. She said Stonehouse converted the land into a show and her bills of sale. Stonehouse denies that she is a partner.

TO AMEND COMPLAINT.

DIVORCE DECREE DENIED.

At first denying Mrs. Annie B. Tetlaiff a decree of divorce on the ground that the proof was not sufficient to show that Tetlaiff's misconduct justified her in sending him from home, Judge Monroe yesterday ordered the case set for the calendar on the statement of Attorney Maury that he desired to file an amended complaint alleging Tetlaiff's liking for another woman.

When the decree was denied, Maury remarked that there was another charge. Mrs. Tetlaiff did not want to bring it.

"I thought as much," stated the court, "but if you allege it in an amended complaint you must prove it."

Mrs. Tetlaiff testified in the trial that she did not object as much to Tetlaiff racing as to the fact that he had been drinking. She feared the effect of the environment of the race track on the future of their boy, Dale, 9 years old. She said she had given Teddy the choice of home life or associating with his fast companions, and he had chosen the latter.

FAIL TO GET DIVORCE.

BOTH COMPLAINANTS ELDERLY. When her husband left Mrs. Gesche Ellers he had tired of her and would not give up Mrs. Minnie Sharp, a widow, she sued him for divorce, alleging that she had been cruelly treated and charged his wife with cruelty in a cross-complaint.

The suit was tried by Judge Monroe yesterday, and the combined ages of the eternal triangle aggregated 141 years. Ellers is 65, his wife 61, and Mrs. Sharp, 15. Ellers is the mother of nine children.

A plaintiff witness was Miss Grace Morrison, a friend of the Ellers, who testified she had seen Ellers visiting Mrs. Sharp three times a day. Ellers is alleged to have said that he would give up his wife and live with Mrs. Sharp. Both decrees were denied.

COURTHOUSE NOTES.

BREVITIES MISCELLANEOUS.

JURORS MAROONED. The damage suit of Teresa Martinez against R. W. Bingham was continued until Wednesday by Judge Myers yesterday because three jurors and several witnesses failed to appear. It was later learned that the stormy weather had marooned the jurors.

The delinquent jurors started from home but were marooned. They were Fred Stinaard of Whittier, J. L. Peck of Moneta, and Miss W. Robinson of Azusa. Even Mrs. Martinez, who lives at Pomona, was unable to get to court.

SEEK ANNULLMENT. Intoxication is pleaded by Thomas Sheldrick as the reason why he succumbed to the inducements of Beattie E. Silver and married her at San Francisco, July 2, 1912. When he regained his senses a week later, Sheldrick alleged in a complaint to annul the marriage, he told his wife he would not live with her and promptly left her. Following, according to Sheldrick, followed an acquaintance of only twenty-four days.

VISITS COURT. George Donworthy, formerly a judge of the United States District Court, appointed by President Taft, was a visitor from Seattle to Judge Houser's court yesterday. He is a friend of former Judge Louis C. Stearns, one of the attorneys in the Holyoke will contest, when he practiced law in Maine.

DAMAGES AWARDED. Judgment for $1750 was given by a jury in Judge Houser's court yesterday in the $5000 damage suit of Harry Pashagian against John A. Vaughn and E. L. Slade, for personal injuries. Pashagian was run over by an automobile owned by Vaughn and driven by Slade.

NON-SUITS. John F. Lassen, a machinist's helper, was non-suited by the Southern Pacific in Judge Wood's court yesterday, in an action for damages brought by him against the railroad for the loss of an eye while in the employ of the railroad. Lassen alleged that he was injured in an accident, but Lassen failed to prove his case.

Baby Day Today at Hamburger's

The time when Baby Shop and kindred departments come forward with merchandise for the little folks, with reminders of the thoroughness with which we've equipped Baby's apparel needs.

Just as much care and forethought goes into the assembling of tiny garments and accessories as to those for the grown-ups. Styles, qualities and workmanship measure up to the exacting Hamburger standards, even to the smallest detail. The attractiveness demonstrates Hamburger supremacy, too—note these instances.

Clearance Children's $3.50 Coats at $2.50

—Smart, sturdy little high-necked, double-breasted garments of black broadcloth velvet. A broken assortment in which there are sizes 4 to 14 years only, all now marked for a quick disposal at a substantial saving.

The sketch shows an attractive style:

Children's $1.00 Hats 45c

6 Miles of Paved Streets Mean No Mud at Chesterfield Square

We shall have a wet winter. Forecaster Carpenter of the local weather bureau says: "We have had generous rains and we shall have more of them. This despite the fact that we've had 14.79 inches of rain to date, while our normal rainfall is but 7.52."

Now, then, rain means mud—sticky, oozy, slimy, clinging M-U-D—it means mud and discomfort most everywhere outside the heart of the city. But rain most emphatically does not mean mud at Chesterfield Square. Six miles of paved streets, plus perfect drainage, plus a quarter of a million dollars spent in improvements—there's the answer. Better go out and look this tract over. If you're seeking an investment, a lot at $950 and up will show a handsome profit in a year's time; if you're seeking a home, we've Callom Passes as a Believer.

Minister Says Former Senator Withdrew His Denial of Immortality.

Notes on the Hereafter Underwent a Radical Change in Last Few Days.

Body of Lincoln's Friend to Be Laid at Rest in Springfield, Ill.

(BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.)

WASHINGTON BUREAU OF THE TIMES, Jan. 23.—(Exclusive Dispatch.) Shortly before 10 o'clock, the Hon. Shelby M. Callom, former Senator from Illinois, died in his sincere belief in the immortality of the soul. This fact is interesting because, in his book entitled "Fifty Years of Public Service," issued a year ago, Mr. Callom said he had never been able to satisfy himself that the doctrine of immortality was sound. In the book he said: "I have no great fear of death except the natural dread of the physical pain which usually accompanies it. I certainly wish beyond any words to have power to utter that I could see greater assurance that there will be a reuniting with those we love and those who have loved us in some of the scriptures, and, even, admitting that there is a hereafter, I cannot find any satisfactory evidence to warrant my belief that I shall be reunited with those I love. I do not know but that I shall meet them in some way, but I believe, I am quite content to wait."
